Reckoning: Protest. Defiance. Resilience.
 This exhibition at National Museum of African American History and Culture looks at the ways in which visual art has long provided its own protest, commentary, escape and perspective for African Americans. It utilizes Smithsonian Hi—a digital museum guide experience that allows visitors to engage with museum objects using their personal mobile devices. Visitors can use Hi to learn more about objects on view in the Museum's galleries and stories that connect them through video, audio, image and text features.
