For this week's story on @AriannaHuff's @Thrive we honor @VanessNakate. When she was cropped out a photo with @Greta Thunberg and other white climate activists at @Davos World Economic Council, Vanessa used the power of the media to shine the light on young people of all colors, creeds and continents — on the global fight against climate change.

Monday: Vanessa Nakate, Rise Up Africa!

After months of solo protests in front of Uganda's parliament, she founded Youth For Future Africa. Vanessa is not waiting to make her voice heard: she's lifting it up now. She sees that African countries are too often left out of the picture when it comes to climate change. Her goal is to change the narrative. She's made it her mission to take a stand for her people, her country and our world.
